Address _____

Email Address _____

By entering into the coaching agreement, the client agrees to:

- Come to the meeting at the scheduled time or be charged a no-show fee
- Pay the Coaching Fee upon invoice
- Provide 24-hour notice if unable to attend the coaching session or be charged a no-show fee

The client understands that they are fully responsible for their physical, mental, and emotional well-being during the coaching session. The Coaching Relationship is a professional relationship designed to facilitate the creation and development of goals related to the client's ideas and to develop a plan for achieving those goals. Coaching does not involve a diagnosis or treatment or a disorder. The Client understands that coaching is not a substitute for counseling, psychotherapy, psychoanalysis, mental health care, or substance abuse treatment, and the Client will not use it in place of any form of diagnosis, treatment, or therapy. The information shared will be held confidential unless I (the client) provide written consent to share information. No private personal information will be shared, such as the client's name or age. The client understands that coaching is not a substitute for advice by legal, medical, financial, business, spiritual, or other qualified professional guidance. The client understands that all decisions and actions regarding the coaching process are the client's sole responsibility.

I have read and agree to the above.
